

Contenido

Chapter 1. Introduction	15
Chapter 2. Coal and the energy transitions in Colombia and worldwide	25
2.1. Coal: a troublesome energy source.....	28
2.2. Manifestations of the coal economy in Colombia	31
2.3. Large-scale coal mining in the Caribbean region: a case of extractivism.....	38
2.4. Medium and small-scale coal mining in the Andean region..	41
2.5. Energy transitions in Colombia: reality vs. discourse.....	44
Chapter 3. Conceptual referents from the Epistemologies of the South.....	53
3.1. Overview of Latin American indigenous feminisms	57
3.2. A relational gender approach	62
3.3. Territory	69
3.4. Community sovereignty.....	76
Chapter 4. Alternatives from below for energy transitions.....	87
Chapter 5. Methodology	99
Chapter 6. Dreams about rivers should come true: Colombia's Wayuu women fight for life in Provincial and Lomamoto indigenous reserves, in the department of La Guajira	111
6.1. Past, present and future: learning to be in the territory.....	115
6.2. Dream and memory: Wayuu women as guardians of the Wisdom of their Ancestors	120
6.3. Tradition, trust and social fabric to enhance community sovereignty in La Guajira	125

Chapter 7. Wayuu people! Colombian Afro-women protect the common in La Sierra, department of Cesar	133
7.1 The echoes of ‘Maroon’ cultural enclaves: struggles for the freedom of the territory.....	138
7.2 Women warriors: seeds of re-existence.....	144
7.3 Doing school: intergenerational commitment to subsistence and sovereignty.....	149
Chapter 8. Between the high moors and the city: Colombian peasant women set out sustainable alternatives to coal extraction in Monguí, department of Boyacá.....	157
8.1 Female entrepreneurship as a commitment to autonomy.....	161
8.2 Work and territory: making agriculture viable to overcome the mine.....	165
8.3 Sorority, savings and inclusion for local autonomy.....	172
Chapter 9. Insights for energy transitions from the territory.....	181
9.1 Mining-extractive transition	185
9.1.1 Strengthening critical voices from the territories.....	186
9.1.2 Realizing publicly serious damage caused by the extraction of coal.....	187
9.1.3 Repairing the greatest damage being done to the territory and its inhabitants	188
9.1.4 Creating and improving job alternatives beyond coal	190
9.2 Energy democratization	193
9.2.1 Strengthening the capabilities of communities to do renewable energy projects.....	196
9.2.2 Rethinking the interactions between communities and external actors in the energy sector	199
9.2.3 Adapting the economic scheme of the energy market.....	203
9.2.4 Strengthening energy surveillance and control capabilities in the territory.....	206
9.3 A broad and comprehensive energy transition	207
9.3.1 Identifying and reaching net-zero emission economic alternatives	207
9.3.2 Building education systems based on respect for human beings and the ecosystem.....	208

9.3.3 Decentralizing state functions and working for the empowerment of local communities.....	211
Chapter 10. Conclusions	221
Appendices	229
References.....	231

Surroundings of Fundación (Magdalena), in the Caribbean region of Colombia, at sunset.

photograph by: Mateo Vega, march 2021